Book Service

Radionuclide therapy uses radioactive isotopes (radionuclides), administered either orally or intravenously, to deliver highly targeted therapy for a range of disorders, enabling the delivery of a high dose to the target, while minimising normal-tissue toxicity.
Radionuclide therapy, also known as isotope therapy or more recently molecular therapy is used to treat a range of cancers, as well as some non-cancerous diseases.

The London Clinic radiotherapy department uses the world`s most up-to-date technology to provide the most advanced treatments possible for our patients. Clinical Radiotherapy staff use two Varian linear accelerators that deliver a wide range of external beam radiotherapy. All treatments are given using Image Guided Radiotherapy (IGRT) and treatments such as Intensity Modulated and Volumetric Arc Therapy (IMRT and VMAT or RapidArc) are standard for many patients.
We are also able to successful treat a wide range of tumours using respiratory gating. Deep inspiration breath hold (DIBH) is the technique we use for left side breast cancer. The technique of end expiration breath hold (EEBH) is used for tumours in the abdomen and thorax including pancreas, lung and oesophageal cancer. The London Clinic is the only hospital in the UK to use the Gated

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM (ECG)

Description

Book Service

An ECG measures the electrical activity of your heart that causes it to beat. The test can be used to check whether your heart is functioning properly, or whether there may be damage to it as a result of drugs, devices such as pacemakers, an existing heart disorder such as an irregular heartbeat, or a past heart attack.

During an electrocardiogram, a machine called an electrocardiograph records the electrical activity of your heart muscle and translates this as a pattern on a computer screen or on paper. If your heart is functioning normally, the ECG will have a characteristic pattern, while any irregular heartbeat will change the shape of the pattern produced.

An echocardiogram allows your doctor to examine the structure of your heart such as your heart walls, chambers and arteries in order to see how it functions. An echocardiogram also allows your doctor to examine the speed at which blood is pumped through your heart.

At The London Clinic, our highly trained team of cardiologists and technicians perform echocardiograms to diagnose problems with your heart. There are several different types of echocardiogram, and your doctor will recommend the test most suitable to you given your individual circumstances.

The London Clinic Endoscopy Unit is a purpose-built, recently refurbished facility which allows complete examination of either the upper gastrointestinal (GI) tract or the lower GI tract. Endoscopy is used to investigate all parts of the digestive system. Upper gastrointestinal (GI) endoscopy and lower GI endoscopy (colonoscopy) are generally performed by physician or surgeon gastroenterologists who have specialised in these techniques.

Some of our consultants specialise in endoscopic examination of the small bowel and of the pancreatic and bile ducts.
The calm, relaxing environment has recently been upgraded to provide an enhanced environment for our consultants, giving the best possible treatment to our patients.

Doctor Aleshire Mollie E.

Call

About | Working Hours | Related Services

My name is Mollie E. Aleshire; I am a family and pediatric nurse practitioner at the University of Kentucky College of Nursing Phyllis D. Corbitt Community Health Center in Wilmore, Ky. I am an assistant professor in the University of Kentucky College of Nursing. I am passionate about providing healthcare to the people of Kentucky and educating the nurses of the future. My nursing practice spans more than fifteen years with experience in both critical care and ambulatory care settings. I serve as a clinical preceptor for both baccalaureate and advanced practice nursing students.

I received a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree from Berea College in Berea, Ky. I earned a Master of Science in Nursing in the family nurse practitioner track from the University of Kentucky in 2003. I was awarded a post graduate scholar certificate in the pediatric nurse practitioner track by Spalding University in 2005. In May 2010, I completed a Doctor of Nursing Practice at the University of Kentucky.

About | Working Hours | Related Services

My name is Lowell Anthony; I joined the UK Markey Cancer Center with more than two decades of experience in oncology and a special focus in gastrointestinal and neuroendocrine oncology. My clinical interests include drug development ranging from Phase I to III clinical trials. Agents targeting specific cellular signaling pathways and injectable radiolabeled compounds make up my past and current clinical investigative interests. I bring a clinical correlative component to complement the ongoing translational activities at Markey Cancer Center.

I attended Vanderbilt University Medical School, where I also completed a medical residency and fellowship training in medical oncology and clinical pharmacology. I have previously been on the medical faculties at Vanderbilt University and the Louisiana State University Health Sciences Center in New Orleans.
